PCTI Celebrates Career and Technical Education Month

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) joins countless schools from across the United States in celebrating February’s National Career and Technical Education Month, when schools pay tribute to the vital role career and technical education plays in teaching students to become knowledgeable and productive members of society.

PCTI is the largest career and technical school in New Jersey whose mission is to prepare students for successful careers by providing them with an innovative and immersive educational experience that highlights the importance of advanced academics and career and technical education. Celebration of the month-long event serves to recognize and thank the contributions of our skilled instructors, as well as our valuable business and industry partners, who support the success of Career and Technical Education.

The high school sponsors visitations of student ambassadors to local businesses and county agencies to showcase the value of career and technical education. Students also participate in numerous activities on campus that display their talents.

Career and Technical Education successfully raises the educational bar and sets a new standard for success with instruction in hands-on and engaging fields that are both rigorous and relevant to the success of the global economy.

Career and Technical Education Month is sponsored by the Association for Career and Technical Education (ACTE), a national agency dedicating to preparing adults and youths for their careers.
