Business Partners Share Enlightening Day with Plumbing Technology Students

Wayne, NJ – FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – Passaic County Technical Institute (PCTI) is once again providing students with the best opportunities possible to prepare for their futures. Recently School of Construction plumbing students were treated to an enlightening visit by one of PCTI’s Business Partners, Henry’s Plumbing Supply of Hawthorne, who brought their traveling showcase of emerging technologies to PCTI. A high-tech trailer boasted numerous working mechanics—boilers and furnaces, currently being used in the industry.

What followed was a tour and Q&A session with associates. Regional Factory Representatives from Peerless Boilers and Advanced Hydronics were also in attendance to discuss personal career experience with students. They spoke about the various levels of education and industry training in which they have participated. Students were also given an overview of various industrial and residential products.

Perhaps the most enriching part of the lecture was when representatives encouraged students to stay the course of becoming highly trained professionals in the Construction/Plumbing Technology field. The career choice, associates stressed, is a much needed occupation in our world today.

The event was enriching educational experience for all students involved.
